

A new energy strategy for controlling heating and ventilation systems for existing offices

The main objective is to build up a simulation model of an existing building with the software IDA ICE and to investigate how to control it. The project shows how to design the main components of the building and how it is implemented in IDA ICE. Several control strategies are investigated in order to know the software features and it's potential.

Marcus Andersson